Zephyr Announces New Look and Logo

Today Zephyr Environmental Corporation announces a new look and modified logo to better reflect the character of the business. Explaining the change, Zephyr's president, Joe Zupan, said "We've long been known as an air quality consulting powerhouse, and it still accounts for a large share of our business, but over time we've added many other services – corrective action, waste management, natural resources, water quality, health and safety, and many other strategic services. The blue, green, and tan colors in our modified look for our website, our Currents newsletter, and our other marketing and business collaterals reflect our work in air, water, soil, and natural resources. Please visit our new general services website at www.zephyrenv.com and our new training services website at www.hazmatacademy.com."

Austin-based Zephyr Environmental Corporation offers its clients strategic consulting, training, and data systems expertise in the areas of air and water quality, waste issues, incident management, and workplace and community safety. Zephyr, a 60-person firm, has offices in Austin and Houston, Texas, Columbia, Maryland, and a presence in Dubai in the United Arab Emirates. In the seventeen years since the founding of Zephyr, it has offered its services to numerous clients worldwide – with a varied clientele that includes such firms and entities as Samsung, H-E-B Grocery Company, Williams Energy, Lehigh Cement, and the Dubai Municipality.
